First Lady Visiting in California

By FRANCES LEWINE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pickets and politics loomed large as the nation's First Lady pursued culture and beauty on a two-day California visit.

Some 300 chanting, placard-waving anti-Viet Nam demonstrators awaited Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson at the opening Tuesday night of the San Francisco Opera.

"Hey, hey, LBJ! How many kids did you kill today?" they recited over and over.

Police held them back at the carriage entrance amid limousines and formally clad first nighters.

Mrs. Johnson entered via another entrance with a Secret Service Escort, where she walked past about 50 pickets in her flowing gold brocade and green chiffon gown, paying no attention and displaying a set smile.

The pickets' placards directed harsh words at the First Lady, who has espoused a cause of beautification across the country.

"Beautify Viet Nam, bring U.S. troops home," said one sign.

Some of the first nighters expressed resentment at the intru-

Fulbright Has Vet Pension Bill Passes the House

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright apparently will not be able to throw the lime-light of public hearings on the American buildup in Thailand as he had hoped.

He is running into reluctance not only from the administration but from some members of his Senate Foreign Relations Committee, whose Viet Nam and China hearings were the forum for much of the foreign policy debate in the Senate this year.

Two committee members, Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., said they believed a majority of the committee did not want public hearings on American operations in Thailand, where the United States is building bases and has stationed some 26,000 servicemen.

"I think a majority of the committee feels that in the middle of a war you don't have hearings on a country associated with you in a war," said Mundt.

Mundt and Sparkman gave their views after the committee questioned Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy Tuesday on the Thailand situation.

Members said afterward they learned little from Bundy at the closed session that they hadn't already read in the newspapers.

Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat, said the administration official's reluctance to discuss the Thai operations in public was due to the Thailand government's desire to keep them an official secret.

O'Brien made the prediction Monday after reviewing the legislative situation with President Johnson. O'Brien helps keep tabs on the administration's legislative program.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Louis Harris poll says Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan would trail President Johnson by just two percentage points if the 1968 presidential election were held now.

The poll, published Monday in the Washington Post, said Johnson now holds a 51-49 percent-age lead over Romney among voters questioned. The President led Romney by 56-44 per cent six weeks ago, Harris said.

The poll also said Romney was the first choice of Republi-can voters questioned as their 1968 presidential nominee.

Encephalitis Mosquito at El Dorado

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) - Dr. Warren Riley, Union County Health Officer, said today that culex quinquefasciatus, an encephalitis-bearing mosquito has been found in the El Dorado area.

Five suspected cases of encephalitis have been reported in the area in the past few weeks. Laboratory studies have diagnosed two of the cases as presumptive positive.

Riley said officials of the U.S. Public Health Service in Atlanta were in El Dorado Saturday trapping mosquitoes. Riley said preliminary work indicates there is not a large concentration of the mosquitoes.

There are two families, Family "A" has three boys, ages seven, 11 and 13. Family "B" has two girls, 11 and 12.

Even since I can remember the girls have gone over to the boys' home to stay overnight as they are very close friends. The oldest girl told my daughter they all sleep in the same room, and there was the natural amount of curiosity.

In fact the things she related shocked my daughter — and me!

The girls are now almost young ladies. At 11 and 12, they definitely should not sleep in the same room with 11 and 13 year old boys.

I don't know whether I should keep quiet and let the parents find out for themselves that they're taking grave chances, but I do know I can't allow our daughters to think this is right and that they can invite boys to sleep with them. What should I do? — Distributed Neighbor

A recent little quip says...

"A career girl is one who would rather bring home the bacon, than cook it."

This may be true in some cases, but for the most part we would definitely disagree. Most of the working girls we know are avid recipe gatherers. They find cooking a relaxation after a day at business and what's more... they just simply like to putter around the kitchen.

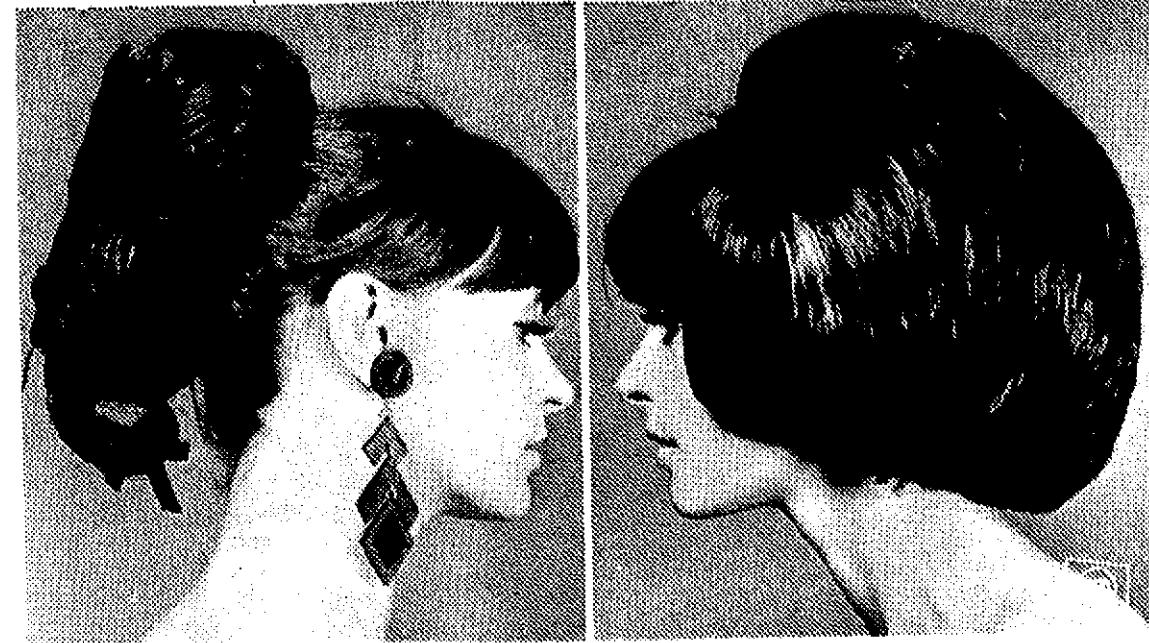

As Baldridge says.... we may be SOC (strange, odd and curious) but we like the smell of food cooking in a house. There are some disagreeable odors that can be carried away by the exhaust fan, but that subtle, spicy smell of something delicious, wafting through the kitchen, lets you know there is a woman in the house!

Another thing that makes cooking such a pleasure is that we do not have to wear that big apron or the plain old house-dress. Most fabrics are washable and a gal can look as smart in the kitchen as her guests in the living room.

If you would like to try a few of these dresses, we would suggest Parkland's or Avalon's wash'n'wear dark cottons. Of course, they are not all cotton, but a mixture of fabrics that makes the drip-dry, stay-press and all that sort of thing. The styles are most important. One and two piece dresses in plaid, stripe, and solids are reduced 20 per cent. See them all today at...

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

"LISTEN-AND-TELL" GAL IS NOT TRUE FRIEND

Dear Helen: My closest friend, supposedly, is always telling me what someone said about me. I ask her if she defended me and she says, "No, I just kept my mouth shut and listened."

I told her once I disliked a tale bearer, but she didn't get it. She says she thinks I should know these things. It only makes me feel bad to hear them and disgusted with her for telling me.

When I hear caty remarks about my friends, I stick up for them, and don't run quick and tell.

My husband says I should drop her because she stirs up trouble and turns one person against another, and she will end up causing terrible trouble in my life. I'm being talked about. She says it's a good turn to let me know. What's with her anyway? — Mrs. C. M. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: Jealousy is "with her" and your husband is right: Your "good" turn here should be — your back! — H.

Dear Helen: Actually this is none of my business but I feel that the parents involved should wake up. Besides, it affects my children because they're all friends together.

There are two families, Family "A" has three boys, ages seven, 11 and 13. Family "B" has two girls, 11 and 12.

Even since I can remember the girls have gone over to the boys' home to stay overnight as they are very close friends. The oldest girl told my daughter they all sleep in the same room, and there was the natural amount of curiosity.

YES SIR!

Dear Mrs. Bottel: I note that you quite often answer "Yes Sir!" to someone obviously inferior to you, even teenagers. Surely you know by now that ladies do not call gentlemen "Sir" unless the man is far above them in station, such as a girl saying, "Sir" to her father or her boss, or a venerable old man of high standing.

You should watch your words, Mrs. Bottel, as people patter after a columnist. — Correct

Dear Correct: I'll say "Sir" to whomever I please whenever I please, thank you — for who's to say who is "inferior" to whom?

And I'm surprised that one so "correct" should refer to women as "ladies" and men as "gentlemen." Don't you KNOW, dear, that all females are women, but they aren't "ladies" until proven. Ditto for men and "gentlemen". This connotation has as little relationship to present-day usage as your "sir" bit, and the whole thing is silly, don't you think?

Computer to Kill Tax Tip Rewards

By JOSEPH R. ROYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Computers may soon put paid tax tipsters out of business.

A bill on Capitol Hill would bar the Treasury Department from rewarding — with up to 10 per cent of the take — the tipsters who tattle to tax collectors about their neighbors or fellow employees.

Its sponsor, Rep. Richard H. Fulton, D-Tenn., cited Internal Revenue Service computers as one reason for ending tips for tipsters.

Action this year on the bill is unlikely because of the little time remaining before Congress adjourns, probably next month. The bill undoubtedly will be reintroduced next year.

The Treasury Department is now drafting its formal position. Even if it does oppose the bill, it is not expected to take a strong stand.

"We would rather have a lot of other bills passed first," said one Treasury employee who has been working on President Johnson's anti-inflation plans.

One source said today the government might hesitate to give up any legitimate tool for enforcing the law. But IRS figures show that only about one in every 20 tipsters actually claims a reward.

IRS has also placed great faith in its computers which beginning Jan. 1 will check every income tax return.

The service has said that fear of the computer is often enough incentive for an otherwise evasive taxpayer to come clean.

Rewards to tipsters are given only on request and only after IRS decides how much the informant's tip was worth.

During the year ended June 30, 1965, the service rejected 3,665 reward claims and paid 792 claimants $597,731, an average of $754.71 per successful tipster.

It credited $12.9 million in tax collections to "information furnished by informants," both paid and unpaid. The informants can receive up to 10 per cent of the recovered tax but the average payment is 4 to 5 per cent.

Diamonds

Annual world production of diamonds is 26 million carats, or nearly 4½ tons, of which total about 77 per cent are used in industry, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

SOMETHING SPECIAL in the sheep line is the flock being fed by Charlotte Davidson. They are prize-winning Dorset sheep for exhibition at the New Jersey State Fair in Trenton, Sept. 17-25.

High Living

Greatest altitude at which men are known to live permanently is 17,500 feet. A mining settlement at Aconcagua, in the Andes, is situated at this altitude.

Magic Number for Orioles Is Now Three

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

ing with Steve Barber heading a list of injured hurlers, started looking around for mound help last month. A group of Phoebe's Baltimore neighbors picketed the Orioles offices, suggesting that Tom, a local boy, be called up from Rochester of the International League.

Instead Baltimore recalled Frank Bertaina and after only one start, Bertaina reported he had a bad knee. Phoebe, meanwhile helped Rochester to the IL pennant, striking out 207 batters in 200 innings.

When Rochester was eliminated in the playoffs, Phoebe was finally recalled. It was too late for him to be eligible for the Series but his two shutouts have kept the Orioles driving toward the flag, a goal that could be reached before the week is over.

In the only other American League game played Tuesday, Cleveland downed Minnesota 4-1. Chicago at New York, Boston at Washington and California at Detroit were all rained out.

In the National League, Los Angeles walloped Philadelphia 11-1, Pittsburgh whipped San Francisco 6-0. Cincinnati topped Chicago 6-3 in 13 innings. New York blanked Houston 3-0 and Atlanta defeated St. Louis 5-1.

Phoebe pitched a five-hitter, striking out seven. The Orioles' pitching staff has managed only four complete games since Aug. 1 and the youngster has two of them. Dave McNally, ace of the staff, has the other two.

Phoebe was brought up after the rosters went to a 40-man limit on Sept. 1. He is ineligible to pitch in the Series because he was not on the Orioles' 25-man roster Aug. 31.

Frank Robinson gave Phoebe all the support he needed with his 47th home run, a personal as well as club record. Robinson also had a double and took over the lead in the batting race, breaking a tie with Minnesota's Tony Oliva.

Robinson, trying for the Triple Crown, leads Oliva by a single point, .312 to .311. The Orioles' outfielder has a wide lead in the home-run and runs-batted-in races. He has 47 homers to Harmon Killebrew's 36 and has 114 RBI to Boog Powell's 106.

Thinks Hogs Already Got Their Scare

By HAROLD CLAVASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) -- A computer-minded figure Albert has made the surprising discovery that there are 26 football playing colleges whose teams are named the Wildcat.

This week there also was a football forecaster with the temperament of a wildcat -- all because he could not see the impending triumphs of Wisconsin over Iowa State, Miami over Colorado or Southern Methodist over Illinois.

Those three picks that went wrong brought in average of $14 for the first week of the season.

Here's hoping the average soars in the second week:

Purdue over Notre Dame; This could be one of the best games of the season and you can see it on your television screen -- if the blocking and tackling doesn't shatter your tube. Bob Griese will find a way to get the ball into the Irish end zone.

UCLA over Syracuse; Gary Beban and his playmates shade Floyd Little and company.

Alabama over Louisiana Tech; Next week Tech plays in its class against McNeese State. Hardly a workout for the defending national champions.

Nebraska over Utah State; The deliberate Huskers are guided by quarterback Bob Churchich.

Arkansas over Tulsa; The Porkers got a good scare last week when they barely squeezed past Oklahoma State, 14-10.

Michigan State over Penn State: How can you defeat a team whose defense includes such operators as Bubba Smith and George Webster?

Baylor over Colorado; Terry Southall is sound again.

Missouri over Illinois; The Tigers from the Big Eight have Russ Washington on defense and Charlie Brown on offense.

Michigan over California; The Wolverines' quarterback, Dick Vidmer, became of age last week against Oregon State.

Louisiana State over Rice; By about a touchdown.

Florida over Mississippi State: Many critics rate Steve Spurrier of Florida as the best passer among all the collegians.

Says Marriage Invented
at a Time When People Didn't Live Very Long

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — At 23, Lynn Redgrave, Britain's newest film star, is a bachelor girl who still enjoys the freedom of living alone.

"There's no hurry," said Lynn, who is tall, jolly, and has lemon-gold hair, gray-blue eyes and a complexion as fair and delicate as sea foam.

"After all, if you get married at 20, you simply have millions of years to spend with the same person."

"Marriage was invented at a time when people didn't live very long. You felt you had a good run if you lived to be 40."

"But I won't feel I'm on the shelf if I'm unmarried at 30. On the other hand, if I want to get married tomorrow, I will."

Lynn is a comparatively late bloomer in the famous Redgrave acting family which includes her father, Sir Michael; her mother, Rachel Kempson; her brother, Corin, and her sister, Vanessa, star of "Morgan."

At the ripe old age of eight she had only played the role of a shepherd in a school Nativity play. Her childhood dream world was built around pots and pans and horses. She yearned to be an equestrienne.

"I had a pipe dream that fell to pieces," she said. "I wanted to grow up and cook for rich people to earn enough money to finance my riding. But I came to realize that wouldn't work."

At 15 during a visit to Shakespeare's birthplace at Stratford-on-Avon, where her parents were appearing, she was suddenly swept by an idealistic love of the theater. Almost religious in its nature, the vision took over her life.

Since then she has appeared in 25 plays, several television shows and four movies. She recently achieved stardom in "Georgy Girl," a bright comedy in which she plays the tomboy daughter of an English butler, adopts a baby, and totes it along to her marriage to her father's employer, played by James Mason. Sure it's real-life stuff. Things like that happen every day in ye moderne merrie Eng land.

Lynn isn't sure whether bearing the Redgrave name is a help or hindrance in her career.

"There are fors and aginsts," she said. "When I started it was an advantage, but it was also a disadvantage to be put in the spotlight so young. It magnified whatever I did, good or bad."

"But it all sort of cancels itself out in the end."

The Electric Car
-Ghost Out of Automobile's Past

our editor feels definitely dated on reading that the electric automobile may make a comeback. Younger Americans never saw an "electric," possibly never heard of one - yet this writer rode in one as a boy in 1911.

An Associated Press dispatch in yesterday's Star reported that Ford Motor Co. is preparing to test a new "electric" in the British market, then introduce it to America. The dispatch reports that General Motors and Chrysler are researching a similar idea.

But I wouldn't advise the operators of service stations and auto supply stores to press the panic button just yet. From what I know of engineering, and personal experience in a day when electric cars were fairly plentiful in the big cities, there is going to be a heavy demand for gasoline, oil, spark-plugs and accessories for years to come.

The old-time "electric" had certain advantages over a gasoline-powered car - but also some monumental disadvantages. Its operating cost was virtually nothing - the cost of current for an overnight charge of the batteries; and tires ran forever. It was the simplest of all vehicles to operate, and was a big conversation piece among cautious old ladies.

But - and this is a major word - an "electric" was underpowered, was slow, and its driving range was only 60 miles at the most, restricting its use to city streets where a charging station was always handy.

Biggest objection of all was the weight and cost of the trayful of lead-and-acid batteries which propelled the car. The batteries would run three or four years, and then you got a bill of $1,800 for replacements. Every farmer with experience in replacing the batteries of a Delco power-plant knows what I am talking about.

Now Ford Motor Co. is talking about a major breakthrough in solving the battery handicap. Mention is made of "lightweight" sodium - sulfide" batteries. What they are talking about is the nickel cadmium storage battery, designed originally for airplanes and the space age. It is in wide-spread use today for small appliances - powering electronic flashes, electric razors, and rechargeable flashlights. Your editor is familiar with the nickel cadmium battery, the newspaper having seven such outfits in the photo department.

The Ford Motor Co. dispatch yesterday hinted that with such a battery the range of an electric car might be boosted to the 200 miles or so you expect of a full tank of gasoline. This is possible, for the nickel cadmium battery has tremendous power and recovery ability.

And its other great advantage is that it would last for the life of the automobile. The nickel cadmium batteries in The Star's Ascorlight electronic flash outfit are guaranteed for 10 years and have a life expectancy of 15. They are much more expensive than lead-and-acid batteries - but then, you would never get an $1,800 bill for battery replacement.

Even a 200-mile range wouldn't qualify the new electric car for touring purposes. But the Ford people have thought of that, too. Yesterday's dispatch suggested that service stations all over the country would stock charged sets of batteries, and the tourist would change batteries in just the time it takes to fill up the tank of a gasoline car.

So the service stations would still be in business.

Wives Fail to Free Prisoners

BRASILIA (AP) - Wives of two Americans imprisoned here on a smuggling conviction left for home Monday after failing in attempts to confer with Brazilian authorities about their husbands' clemency plea.

Mrs. Joseph McCutchen of Fort Smith, Ark., and Mrs. Joe Truhill of Addison, Tex., left after a two-week visit. The wife of a third American in the group, Mrs. Sam Sexton Jr., also of Fort Smith, left Thursday.

The three men are serving three-year terms after being convicted of smuggling marijuana out of Brazil.

Military to Lower Mental Standards

WASHINGTON (AP) - The military is lowering its mental standards in order to draft 20,000 men within nine months for special training and eventual regular service.

The move announced Tuesday is the first step in Secretariat of Defense Robert S. McNamara's plan to train for duty 100,000 men a year who now are being rejected for physical or mental reasons.

It is the third drop in minimum standards this year, and spokesmen said studies are under way to determine what revisions should be made in order to make another 20,000 men eligible by June 30. The plan is to reach its 100,000-a-year rate in 1968-69.

McNamara sees the special training as an arm in the administration's antipoverty program.

The change affects men drafted after Sept. 30. Those who score in the bottom rank of the general knowledge armed forces qualification test no longer will have to pass a general technical aptitude test which measures verbal and arithmetic reasoning.

They still must pass at least two of six other aptitude tests in fields of infantry, general maintenance, electronics, motor maintenance, clerical, and armor-artillery-engineer.

The Pentagon asked Selective Service to defer for now the re-screening of men who flunked under previous requirements.

These 2.4 million men are in pool designated 1Y - disqualified except in case of war or national emergency.

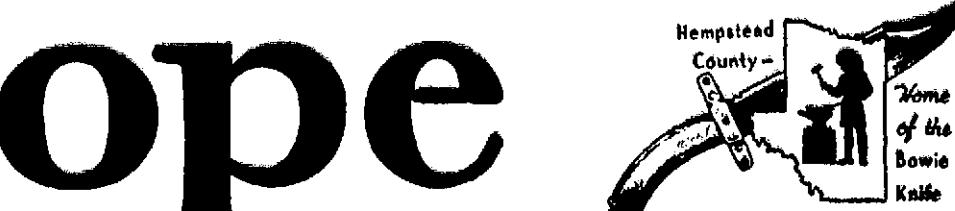

This One Is The Quiet Beatle

BOMBAY, India (AP) - A lot of people in Bombay take lessons on the sitar - a stringed, guitar-like instrument. Nothing unusual about that.

But the plucking gets newsworthy when one of the pupils is named Sam Wells.

Who is Sam Wells? He is an Englishman who generally goes around as George Harrison, the quiet Beatle.

He is staying at the Taj Mahal Hotel under the assumed name while he studies the sitar.

The apparent failure of a small rocket motor aboard the Surveyor 2 spacecraft casts doubt on the success of the mission to the moon.

Johnson said there is enough money to run the Viet Nam war through June of 1967 under present appropriations.

He said day-by-day estimates are being made on future estimated costs.

"We hope to make the best estimates we can as to what additional monies we will need and so inform the Congress," Johnson said.

Johnson said he would not comment on the House Republican charge that he has not "levied" with the American people about the war in Viet Nam and its future escalation.

"I don't think we would serve the nation or the world by defaming statements of that kind," he said.

To a question whether he thought the budget could be balanced for 1967 - the present fiscal year - the President replied that an answer would be "sheer speculation that would have little value."

Negotiated Peace Call, Marcos Urges

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos was expected to call for a negotiated peace in Viet Nam in a speech today to the U.N. General Assembly.

Evelyn Seversen, Extension Housing Specialist, will be discussing "Analyzing House Plans" in the afternoon and short course enrollees will be invited to bring house plans.

The Agricultural Extension Service offers free copies of the capture of the village.

As the Marines took Gia Binh, U.S. B-57 bombers and Phantom jets returned to the demilitarized zone and pounded Red positions inside and below the area.

The eight-engine bombers from Guam unloaded tons of explosives about a mile below the zone and near the area of fighting between the Marines and North Viet Nam's 324B Division.
